LOST CHICAGO BUSINESS FOUND IN NEW YORK

New York Jan 15. (UPI) — Buster, the missing Chicago business man, was arrested at the corner of First Avenue and Beaufort street this morning and taken to a police station. He has been working in the neighborhood as a nurse, taking care of a sick woman.

Mrs. Buehlert admitted her identification. She told the police that she came here over a month ago with the intention of seeing the world.

She declared that no man had anything to do with her leaving home.

The girl is worth $100,000. She disappeared from her Chicago home November 26, and kidnapping was suspected.

JOINED RICHESON MONEY BUT NEVER ENGAGED

denies that she was ever engaged to Richeson. She said she loaned him money in Missouri to complete his theological education but as soon as her interest in him was nothing more friendly.

GRAVE CHARGES MADE AGAINST A MINISTER

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 15.—District Attorney Blakely has ordered the arrest of Rev. W. D. McFarland, a former department head in the Pittsburgh high schools and now head of the United Presbyterian church missions in East Tennessee.

It is said that Eliel Dodds, one of his former secretaries, stated just before she died last Friday that he was responsible for her condition which had isolated two top officials. He is 60 years of age and the father of two daughters who live in Great Ville, Tenn.

Trimmings of Coral Pink, This makes One of the Daintiest of Garments.

Gray Delaine spotted with coral pink is chosen for our model, which would most daintily. It is cut Meg and has slight fullness in which is gathered and to a shaped band of plain gray lace braided with coral pink. Thus made, this trimming is also taken Down left side of front from shoulder to hem, and is edged with a narrow trim, the sleeves are set to bands of the trimming with frills.

Materials required: Six yards de lace 25 inches wide, three-fourths yard plain, about one dozen yards Russian braid.

WHAT LEMONS ARE GOOD FOR

Variety of uses to Which Fruit May Be Put—Of Great Medicinal Value.

Golfers and women who indulge in outdoor exercise are often troubled with tired and swollen feet. They will derive much relief if they rub their skin with equal parts of lemon juice and alcohol well blended.

The most obstinate corn can be cured it is said by the application of a poultice made of breadcrumbs and lemon juice. A thin slice of fruit takes the place of the poultice during the day, the process to be repeated as often as necessary. Rub it on blisters with a slice of lemon dipped in salt.

A small bottle of fresh lemon juice should be kept on every toilet table. It is useful to allay irritation caused by the stings and bites of flies and insects. A dash of it in a glass in excellent mouth wash whitening the teeth, preventing the formation of tartar and sweetening the breath. The following is a simple receipt for a shampoo. Extract the juice from two lemons and boil this with the peels for ten minutes. Strain the juice on two ounces of salts of tartar add two quarts of warm water and a few drops of any approved perfume. Use an ordinary shampoo brush and note the beneficial effect on the hair and skin.

Women who are inclined to be too cold, or who suffer from rheumatism or torpid livers should take the juice of half a lemon sweetened half a tumbler of water (without sugar) every morning instead of the customary early tea.

Two or three slices of lemon in a cup of hot tea (without the addition of milk) will often cure a nervous fit, headaches and many people find munching a lemon is an excellent preventive of fits or seasickness.

Finger Tips.

Instead of always cleaning the tips of the fingers with water and soap, try using cold cream and water. There is nothing so beneficial to both the texture and the shapeliness of even well-kept finger nails.

When the surface of the nail appears rough or ridged, soak the finger tips in warm sweet almond oil for five minutes every night. The oil should be kept in temperature and the same bath may be used many times.

Vaseline is really more effective than cream in nourishing the nail structure. Apply it with the fingers after the oil bath being careful to rub it carefully into every crevice on the side and base of the nails. Rub it with a piece of chamois to drive in the grease and then with the flat end of an orange wood stick push back the flesh and cuticle from the base of the nail. Clip ragged edges of the cuticle with a sharp manicure scissor but do not trim the cuticle itself. Rub it with vaseline and make a second application.

In Two Tones.

Silk stockings woven in two tones are considered very smart as for instance gray and pink or blue or green. Frequently these are embroidered; in fact, unembroidered silk stockings in plain colors are coming back into special favor and fashion.

NO HANDCUFFS IN FRANCE

Some Ingenious Methods by Which the Police There Keep Prisoners From Escaping

Recently a day long without a picture appearing in the French press of a prisoner being led off to the prison by a policeman and the description the episode being taken away handcuffed by the wrists. As in the case of free handcuffs, no longer out of date in France, and we never had.

Instead of the brass cuffs the Frenchman carries a chain, which is a very tough and iron-like metal article resembling a fine wire chain some ten inches long with a stout wooden crossbar at either end. An expert can slip this over the wrist of an offender in a twinkling, and with both the crossbars in the hand has only to give it a twist to inflict the most excruciating pain and compel instant and lamblike submission.

Another common method of preventing escape is to make the prisoner close both his hands in his side trouser pockets and then pass a string round his wrists and round his waist and bid him march. He can walk at a very smart pace, but any attempt to run out of a stamping trot immediately brings him down nose to the pavement.

If no string is handy all the brass buttons of the trousers are cut off and the culprit is made again to put his hands in his pockets. As in the former case he can only walk slow as soon as he frees his hands his leather garments fall about his legs and he is entrapped in the latest fashion.

Few of these devices are apparent to the casual passerby, who often wonders at the passive docility with which some villainous looking individual under arrest follows his captor to the station. Sometimes on a country road one may meet a couple of gendarmes on foot or on horseback leading a prisoner between them.

This is in obedience to a regulation whereby prisoners are never sent by train from place to place as there are no funds set apart for railway fares. Consequently four or five times as much is spent in food, drink and lodging for the犯 as would be for the ticket, but the regulations are observed. In such cases the police often use the "poucettes" though strictly speaking this instrument is not legal.

It is a sort of loose thumbcuff which is fixed so as to keep the two thumbs comfortably together so long as the man does not struggle but a twist of the string held by one of the police is enough to destroy any wish to escape.—London Standard

Japanese Custom

A common complaint made by tourists in Japan is that they are obliged to pay for everything far higher prices than the natives are charged or, in other words, that because they are foreigners they are taxed. But a glance at the social conditions by which the people have been educated would reveal the curious fact that throughout Japan long periods of isolation were an accepted principle that the rich must live for the sake of the poor and prices have always been based upon the purchaser's rank in society or upon his presumed ability to pay. This understanding remains largely in force today being fully recognized and acted upon by all favored classes throughout the empire. The oriental coming from lands where the reverse practically holds good—the poor living for the sake of the rich—naturally complaints of being robbed as from his point of view he really is. But it is not because he is a foreigner but because being a tourist he is presumably wealthy and must therefore conform to the custom of the country which permits the poor to levy a tax upon the rich without thereby incurring the slightest imputation of dishonesty.—Arthur May Knapp in December Atlantic.

Strain the juice on two ounces of salts of tartar add two quarts of warm water and a few drops of any approved perfume. George Junior Republic

The George Junior Republic is a community established in 1895 near Freeville, New York by W. R. George as a method of reform in the treatment of dependent and delinquent children. The organization is similar to that of a miniature republic. It has a constitution based upon that of the United States, and the government of the community is carried on in the same way. At first the founder was president with other adults holding the most important offices, but from 1897 all offices have been held by citizens. Each citizen may work for the founder or for other citizens who contract for labor. All purchases are made with the republic's aluminum coin later redeemed by United States currency.

School is held and farming, carpentry, printing, care of the establishment, dressmaking, domestic service and cookery are the other activities followed. The entrance age is from twelve to eighteen.

Futile Worry

John O. Hockstader, Jr. at a recent dinner in New York said of success:

Success depends a good deal on the recognition of values. The successful man knows what is important and what is unimportant. He doesn't waste time over trifles. That he knows would be as silly as the fairytale girl course.

A Terryland girl after reading a letter from her fiance said pettishly:

I do wish you would learn to write more clearly. I can't tell from this postcard whether he is sending me 10,000 or 100,000 kisses.

ORIGIN OF INDIAN RUNNERS

Came From West Indies and Are Thought by Many People to Be Most Profitable of Duck Family

AS A PASTORALIST

I am a comparatively new year in the Indian Runner duck made their appearance in America. This came originally from the West Indies where they have been raised for centuries for egg production. They derive their name from their native land and race upright carriage. In color they are fawn and white with yellow shanks and light green bill, the latter being sometimes splashed with black.

The body is long and narrow and carried in an almost upright position. Neck is long and thin, with finely formed head.

The Indian Runner is rather small fully matured ducks weighing from four to five pounds. Drakes from five to six pounds live weight.

But they grow very rapidly while young and are easy to raise. What they lack in weight is more than made up for in their other good qualities.

To begin with they are very prolific layers beginning when about six months old. Their eggs are pure white and a little larger than those of a Plymouth Rock hen.

They are superior in quality to an

Indian Runner Drake and Duck

Ducks eggs that we have ever eaten and as a rule they bring higher prices in the market.

The ducklings reach a marketable size when about twelve weeks old. When forced they will weigh four to five pounds at two months.

The meat of the Runner is of an superior quality fine in the grain, juicy and excellent flavor. Hotels and restaurants pay fancy prices for ducklings.

The eggs are in good demand also in winter when eggs are high the Indian Runner is on the job. Any enterprising person can work up a trade among hotels and restaurants that should prove highly profitable.

There is no great danger of strong competition as comparatively few poultry raisers have taken up the launch of the industry notwithstanding the fact that nearly all kinds of poultry products are brought in aboard of ships in the open market.

In summer the Indian Runner when given free range will find the greater part of his living in the fields, but of course when being fattened for market they need none grain. It would be well to try right here that for best results the grain should be either ground or cooked.

PROVIDING GRIT IN WINTER

How Should Be Allowed to Take as Much as They Require—Don't Feed It in Their Mouth

By W. F. PARTRIDGE

When winter comes and the ground freezes or is covered with snow a good deal of the time grit must be supplied. Gravel or grit should be sharp so as to both cut and grind. Smooth pieces of gravel will not answer the purpose. Gravel dug from a pit will make one of the best grits.

When pounded into small pieces broken crockery will make excellent grit also. A little sand mixed with the other grit is helpful but it will not answer for exclusive use just lying sharp nor coarse enough.

If you prefer you can buy prepared grit from the dealers in poultry supplies. A good many people do this and a good many other people buy oyster shells with the belief that they are obtaining grit. The shells need some of the oyster shells as they supply the system with lime and carbonate but they will not take the place of grit. They are too soft and digest rather than grind.

Keep well filled grit boxes where the hens can run to them at will during the winter months and you will find that they consume quite a lot of the material in a month's time. Providing the grit in boxes and allowing the hens to help themselves is the best way of feeding it. They will then use as much as is necessary for their health, as they are the best judges of this matter and consequently will not consume more than they require.

We always know how much would be needed for the health of the birds. It would be all right to mix the grit with the feed. But since we do not know this we would best not force grit upon them as we would be doing if we mixed it with the feed.

Fine Mules And Horses

There will not be a day during the entire season when we cannot supply you with any kind of a mule or any kind of a horse. We visit the markets every few days and select such stock as are in demand in this territory. We know the needs of the buying public, and what's better, we know how to buy hem so we can sell them closer than any other dealer in this territory.

In mules, anything from the pony farm mule, to the heaviest timber mules. In horses, well broke family horses, driving or riding of the best quality.

Buggies, Runabouts & Surries.

We sell more buggies—from actual count—than any firm in South-East Alabama. Our record shows that we have sold at retail—not including wholesale—a solid carload of buggies in ONE WEEK.

How Do We Do This?

1st. We and our connections, buy for SIX LARGE STORES. Quantity enables us to buy right.

2nd. We have been in this business (buggies and wagons) for Twenty-five years. Experience has taught us what to buy.

3rd. We have the largest stock to select from, variety giving our customers opportunity to select any style or finish.

4th. We are exclusive dealers in Buggies, Wagons and Harness and in order to keep your future trade, Our Guarantee Is Right Wagons.

We sell the "Mitchell" and the "Tennessee," in our judgement the best, based on experience in handling every make and brand of wagons sold in this section.

We have never known of a "Mitchell Wagon" tire having to be Re-Set.

The "Tennessee," although sold at a less price, has a Guarantee that alone will sell it.

Harness

We are on the jobbers list in harness, having been placed there by the amount of goods bought, several years ago. This places us in position to sell at wholesale as well as retail. We would be glad to quote merchants' prices at any time and guarantee to save them money.

We believe that our Special No. 7 Single Buggy Harness is the best value ever shown in Dothan.

Come to see us in our new quarters and make yourself thoroughly at home whether you want to buy anything or not we are always glad to see you.

Bradley And Taylor Played Last Concert

Fiddling Bob Taylor and Bill Bradley have played their last tune. "Fiddling Bob" has hung up "do fid-ay do bow" and "Bill" has laid aside all time his beloved guitar, least that's what they say.

In the Senate office building recently these famous South-Cavaliers before summoned to the throne of mortal dignity helped to make famous the Southland with their great rendered their farewell concert.

Twenty years ago Fiddling Bob used to draw away on his old fiddle to the amusement of all the youth. He used his old box in campaigns, on the stump and over a camp meeting or a ball went that Fiddling Bob did not fill the air with alluring strains of southern melodies. And gonial Bill Bradley, of Kentucky—that genius of the guitar—how his musical hand enthrallled thousands with great selections on his old music box.

The old spirit which guided their greatest days was rampant in a private office building the other day. Presently Bill looked at Fiddling Bob and instinctively bent forward in their seats and each was filled with music. Softly and sweetly the melodies of the old and new time and the old masters died in the throats of memory of men played on and on oblivious of all but the strings of their music. After while Bill straightened and suddenly the strains of Old Kentucky home permeated the room. His voice was low and well modulated and when Fiddling Bob joined in a deep hum it was upon those who listened as if he had been born to sing. The volume increased. Should a certain T. W. Wood & Sons, Richmond, Va., be so fortunate

MOBILE COUNTY MAN GETS A BLACK HAND LETTER

Mobile Ala., Jan. 15.—Terrostricken upon receiving a blackhand letter demanding five hundred dollars or his life Joseph Thompson a well known cane syrup manufacturer of Indian Springs a small settlement near Webster this county has fled from his home with his wife and family.

Mr. Thompson it is said received the letter a week or two days ago demanding that he pay him no less than $500 or else as the letter says he would not communicate with him or his wife or any of his relations or friends made it clear that Fiddling Bob did not fall out of the way of possible harm.

The letter threatened the man with death unless he agreed to give the writer of the letter the five hundred dollars demanded there in.

I believe that Mr. Thompson and his wife are now in hiding in a private office building the other day. Presently Bill looked at Fiddling Bob and instinctively bent forward in their seats and each was filled with music. Softly and sweetly the melodies of the old and new time and the old masters died in the throats of memory of men played on and on oblivious of all but the strings of their music. EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY LAW DECLARED CONSTITUTIONAL

Washington Jan. 15.—The constitutionality of the employer's liability law passed by Congress in 1908 was upheld by the Supreme Court today in all cases before it. The court also decided that state courts may enforce the act when local laws are appropriate.

The decision was unanimous, and a complete victory for the government.

Justice Vandenberg declared that Congress had a right to regulate the relation of interstate railroads to their employees if abolition of the assumption of risk by employers was upheld. It is upon changing the old common law rule that an employee of a common carrier could not sue for damages from car or injuries received in employ when the injuries were really in the negligence of fellow workmen.
